should not remain here for another summer, he was released by the Committee from the third year of his engagement, and has returned to England. Mr. G. Caldwell, the assistant master, after doing good sorvice, obtained employment in a Government School.
These masters have been replaced by Mr. and Mrs. Hambling to take joint char e of the school, Mrs. Hambling devoting herself to the younger boys, who, from the difficulty of classifying them, require indiviqual attention, and much increase the severity of the task to be undertaken by any one teacher for the whole school. Mr. and Mrs. Hambling are both trained teachers, and the Committee have the best reason to hope that an orderly, systematic, and energetic regime will be established under their superintendence.

a contribution towards its annual income.

It would be idle for the Committee to profese that they have at any time since the school was started been satisfied with its condition. It has gone on, and gone on without any very serious difficulty—that is all that can be said. The Committee dotrust, however, It has even been necessary to refuse applications for the admission of boarders, because there was no one to look after them. This difficulty has been removed, and at any rate a few pupils from other ports may be expected. It may be said that there are not enough children The insurrectionary agitation in Dalmatia, obtainable here to allow of the achool's ever being a success. It is, however, because there are children as difficult as they have found it. The children to men of having been concerned in the pawning of said that on the afternoon of the 21st he went on on be provided for are those of persons who cannot afford a gold watch, which was part of the contents of board the Andromeda, and left the Company's care to sand their families to Europe, and the Committee's contention is that this is an increasing class. Fifteen yours ago it would have been difficult to find ten Enropean boys in the Colony:

Believing that the experiment of a school for this olass of children has not yet been so complete as they are cortain the public would wish it to be, the Committee confidently appeal again to public liberality for apport and assistance. Even during the past year, the school has grown somowhat. There are more boys, the school fees are more by thirty per cept., and the number of Government passes seenred (under great disadvantages) is more. The Committee consider that an attendance of 40 boys may cauly be secured, with possibly a class of girls also; under suitable conditions. And, as said in last year's report, they believe they will not have to ask in vain in Hongkong, for a couple of hundred pounds.

No; Swatow is really not such a dreadful kind of an "Out-Port" as some fastidious or uncharitable people are inclined to think; there has been any amount of fun knocking about lately, and some big business transactions as well. With regard to pleasure, there have been amateur performances (the last on the 27th nit.) in the Opera House, which latter would look none the worse for the judicious application of some new. plaster and a liberal allowance of white-wash, or paint; there have also been private theatricals, on the 31st ult, at the haspitable mansion of Mr. Richardson (of Mesers, Bradley & Co.), Consul for his Netherlands Majesty. The Protestant Church, built by voluntary public subscription, is finished now; it is a plain but tasteful edifice, and sithough it is small only, it is certainly quite large enough for the churchgoing portion of the Swatow community. The Church is situated in the same compound as the Theatre, the Club, and the Laws Tennis, ground. which proves that the good people of this port not only understand how to combine the agree. able with the useful, but also with the higher sims of life; close to this interesting "compound" is Queen Victoria's Hotel, otherwise termed Her Britannic Majesty's jail. - The latter fine specimen of local architecture is built in what may be called the "Modern-Swatow-Renaissance Receose Style."-Some people are under the impression that fever and ague have been more provalent last year on the Kakchin side of the port than ever bufore. several cases having terminated tatally; per- tributed annually to Contributors, whether haps if sanitary measures of cleantiness with Shareholders or not, in proportion to the net regard to garbige, refuse, cosspuols, etc., in connection with native dwelling houses, were more rigorously enforced by the powers that be, a decided change for the better would very sonn be experienced.-Landed property has gone up enormously in sprice, at Swatow, since Messrs. Williams & Co. have sold their wharf and golowis to the China Navigation Company; since that THRE INSURANCE ASSOCIATION, sale a small piece of river frontage, which was in the market a few mouths ago for $500 has changed hands for $2,000, the purchaser being the coinpradors of a certain foreign bong of long local standing. For another piece of ground, which the enterprising American Consul, Captain Williams. had bought for $6,000, (after he had disposed of his wherf, etc., to the China Navigation Company) no less than $35,000 have been offered by a certain other large foreign shipping firm, established for many years in China and Hongkong; but the proprietor, declined this tempting offer, wishing to build another wherf in front of his newly acquired property; the plans of the new wharf have been sent already to Canton (Swatow pared to grant Insurances as follows:belongs to the province of Kwangtung) and to Peking, to request the necessary sauction of the proper authorities. In the ineantime ground is being reclaimed and filled in rapidly from the foreshore; new houses and streets spring up like mushrooms, and Swatow is getting quite Boston, New York, or San Frencisco en miniature, trely.

An interesting work by Johann Sobastian Bach has just been published for the first time by Messrs. Breitkopf and Hartel, of Leipsig. all premium charged for insurance; such dis-It is a suite in C minor for the pian which has count being deducted at the time of the issue been edited by Robert Franz. In his preface to of Policy. the work the editor states that several copies of the music exist in manuscript at Berlin and Leipsig. All, with one exception, describe the suite as "for the piano," while the copy in the Stadtbibliothek at Leipsig bears on its title "for the lute." Dr. Franz says that only the discovery of an autograph can decide for what instrument Bach wrote the work. Its authorticity is attested both by internal and external evidence. That in its original form it is marely a sketch is shown by the fact that the first eight bars of the Sarabande are in full harmony; while all the rest of the movement is only in two parts. The editor is therefore fully justified in completing the sketch by the addition throughout of the implied likemonies. YANKEE MUSICAL CRITICISM. The editor of a-mining-camp nawspaper went to Denver to hear Emma Abbott sing, and, in a lengthy review of the opera, says: -" As a singer she can just wallon the hose off anything that ever wagged a jaw on the boards. From her clear, bird-like upper notes she would counter away down on the bass racket and then cushion back to a sort of spiritual treble, which made every man in · the audiones imagine every bair on his head inspiring old tune of 'Sally, put the kettle Here she would rest a while, trilling of pleasure from every galoot in the mob."

A GRACIOUS PLOUGHING. Like the "royal older brother" of China. the King of Burma ought to go out once a year to plough the fields. Theebau did not and, as far as I am aware, was equally beedless of ancient custom this year also. The consequences ought to have been dispetrous. According to tradition the failure of the Lettwin Mingala to come off should have caused. a drought all over the country. But the Moh H koung did not ensue; on the contrary there was Moh Koung Thee. An aspirate makes all the difference between a water fuming and seasonable showers. Theebau annals of his country supply too many instances of kings who, having gone abroad, -found on their return to the palace-gates that a usurper had taken possession of the throne in the meantime, and had no better greeting for his predecessor than a short shrift and a red velvet sack for the Irrawaddv. This unloyeable custom has had great weight with Thopbau; but it is unwise of him to entirely ubandon so venerable a custom as the Let-Twin Mingala. It was a very money out of them. The late King, Mindohn low the slow-stepping bullocks. The ceremony took place in the beginning of June. about the time when the south-west monsoon usually breaks in Mandalay. The order went forth that the King would come out on such and such a day, and the people were all eninited to get ready. Not to see him-far from it. The Amehndaw was issued in order that the heads over ten houses, the Teeheing-goungs, night see that the road in their district was in proper order, and that the Yazamat had not got out of repair. The paling put up in every street in the walled might pardon him for his rude gaping. But Yazamat, or king's fence, is a kind of latticetown, and in any of those in the suburbs through which the King is likely at any time to pass. It is formed of thick diagonal spars made into hurdles, which are lashed heavy posts sunk in the ground at regular intervals. The whole is whitewashed, and often flower-pots stand on the top of the posts to onliven the structure a little; and it certainly wants fire-balloons ascend, and everything is given onlivening a good deal. Thus the richly carved and gilt Royal Monastory is passed on the left; and immediately afterwards comparatively open ground is reached, stretching out on either side of the high, raised road. A little farther on, half a mile or to from the selected portion of the Let-dau-greeis reached. Ploughs stand ready in a long row extending away as far as one can see; for all the Princes and Ministers must plough as well as the King.
